	Account numbers in Banks (Saving, Salary, Current, Fixed Deposit, PPF, Loan etc.)	1) There is no uniform format across the industry. Every bank follows its own format and pattern for structuring bank account numbers. Please refer to blog# https://www.paisabazaar.com/banking/axis-bank-account-number/ 2) RBI analysis of structure of Account Numbers across banks are captured in https://www.rbi.org.in/scripts/PublicationReportDetails.aspx?ID=695&A3 and here is the summary. - Most of the banks have unique account numbers. - Account number length varies from 9 digits to 18 digits. - Most of the banks (67 out of 78) have included branch code as part of the account number structure. Some banks have product code as part of the account number structure. - 40 out of 78 banks do not have check digit as part of the account number structure. - All banks have purely numeric account numbers, except one or two foreign banks. - Only in the case of 20 banks, account numbers are formed without any pattern with a unique running serial number."
